

Realization: Juan Luis Herrero (Architecture) | Manuel Tapia y Juan Carlos
Design: Juan Luis Herrero (Architecture) | In collaboration with the architect's partner
Team: WCHERSTAL | The entrance of Villa New Water

ARCHITECTURE

Villa New Water

Project location: Valencia, Spain. Architect: WCHERSTAL. Construction: 2014. Area: 1,200 m². The house is a modern residence with a curved facade and a large pool, situated on a waterfront.

In order to define the final character of the house, it was first necessary to establish a clear and precise architectural concept. This meant the choice of a modern, minimalist style with a curved facade and a large pool. The house is a modern residence with a curved facade and a large pool, situated on a waterfront. The architecture is a blend of modern and traditional elements, creating a unique and sophisticated atmosphere. The curved facade is a key feature, reflecting the surrounding environment and creating a sense of fluidity and movement. The large pool is another important element, providing a space for relaxation and entertainment. The interior is designed to be open and bright, with large windows and a clean, minimalist aesthetic. The overall result is a modern and elegant residence that perfectly blends with its surroundings.

Thanks to the perspective of the site, the house is designed to be a modern and elegant residence. The curved facade is a key feature, reflecting the surrounding environment and creating a sense of fluidity and movement. The large pool is another important element, providing a space for relaxation and entertainment. The interior is designed to be open and bright, with large windows and a clean, minimalist aesthetic. The overall result is a modern and elegant residence that perfectly blends with its surroundings.

These photos are images of Villa New Water, a modern residence with a curved facade and a large pool, situated on a waterfront. The architecture is a blend of modern and traditional elements, creating a unique and sophisticated atmosphere. The curved facade is a key feature, reflecting the surrounding environment and creating a sense of fluidity and movement. The large pool is another important element, providing a space for relaxation and entertainment. The interior is designed to be open and bright, with large windows and a clean, minimalist aesthetic. The overall result is a modern and elegant residence that perfectly blends with its surroundings.